

SUGAR CUBE TEMPLE INSTRUCTIONS

By Linda Winegar for VisitingTeaching.net

We receive
Sweet blessings from attending the Temple.

Uses:

Family Home Evening, Church/Group Activity or to make and give as a gift.

Basic Materials Needed:

- Sugar cubes (amount needed for you temple project)
- Hot glue gun + glue or substitute with Icing if you want to eat it later.
- Graph Paper (paper with little squares)
- Piece of Cardboard (cut it larger than the base of your temple)
- Tin Foil (optional for spires)
- White Poster Board (For the ceiling in case you are making it large.)
- White Lights (optional if you make it large and hollow like sample picture above.)

Instructions:

1. Find a picture of the Temple you will be "building."
2. Draw the temple using the graph paper if needed. Each square = 1 sugar cube.
3. Cut out cardboard base.
4. Glue the first level of sugar cubes to the cardboard base.
5. Build each level one at a time going upwards starting from the bottom.
6. Make it hollow or fill it with cubes. Making it hollow will obviously be quicker and use less sugar cubes.
7. If it's hollow and you'd like a cover, then measure the open area and cut the white poster board to fit the open area and glue it into the open area.
8. Roll pieces of tin foil for spires and glue them into place.

Other Resources: About.com, MormonChic.com, EnrichmentCottage.com

Credit: Photograph and Sugar Cube Temple sample made By Rachel Woods, About.com